Montana News.

The Montana Post of February 10th furnishes the following news items:

A LEAD MINE.

J. S. Rockfellow handed us, on Wednesday last, a bar of very fine lead, run out of the ore from a mine of that metal in Rattlesnake district. This new addition to our mineral resources may be wanted for missiles in Indian or other warfare, but it is very desirable and useful in the "shining times of peace." Under the new regimes of Lyon and Fuller, lead is absolutely necessary, in large quantities, as an amalgamator, instead of gold or silver, to which it is much superior, mainly, it is probable, on account of the high temperature at which it must be used in order to maintain its fluidity; but it is also valuable on account of its being comparatively innocuous in handling and working.

TWO MEN CAUGHT BY A CAVE-IN.

On Monday last, two men named Tom Edwards and Sam Sweeney, who were drifting on the Rogers and Sweeney discovery claim, in the gulch now owned by Parker, Moore & Co., at the foot of Wallace street, were suddenly surprised by a cave, caused by carelessness in timbering, which permitted the falling in of the roof. In spite of every effort on the part of the miners to release them, the tediousness of the operation was such that they were not reached till near day-break on Tuesday. When found, the men were not injured though faint and weak, being protected by the timbers from the falling earth around them.

ON THE WAR PATH.

General Meagher arrived in town, from Virginia City, on Saturday last. He has issued a call for five hundred volunteers, to go against the Blackfoot Indians at Fort Benton.

THE LEGISLATURE CONVENED.

The following proclamation has been issued by the Governor:

WHEREAS, In my reply to a recent communication from certain good citizens of Helena, requesting me to convene the Legislature, I stated that, as then advised and convinced, I did not possess the power to do so, but that, were it shown to me I was mistaken in this conclusion, the Legislature would be called forthwith; and,

WHEREAS, It has been shown me, that under 11th section of the Organic Act, as well as under the 3d section of the Territorial act, and under the 2d section of the Territorial act "Creating certain offices in the Territory of Montana," the power is vested in me to convene the Legislature, notwithstanding the failure of the "Apportionment Bill," and that I am clearly and positively authorized to do so, by these several acts hereinafore referred to, and that, moreover, a Legislature does lawfully and constitutionally exist, and that it only awaits the summons of the Executive to give it full life and action: Now therefore, I, THOMAS FRANCIS MEAGHER, the Executive of this Territory of Montana, do hereby summon and convoke the members of the Legislative Council, duly and properly elected on the 4th day of October, 1864, and the members of the House of Representatives, duly and properly elected on the 4th day of September, 1865, to meet in Virginia City, the capital of the Territory, on Monday, the 5th day of March next, at the hour of noon, for the transaction of business, as well as to give Legislative sanction and validity to the Convention directed to assemble at Helena, on Monday, the 28th day of March next.

THE STINKINGWATER COUNTRY.

A correspondent of the Post, writes from Stinkingwater valley, February 5th, as follows:

As this is an agricultural locality, and we are blessed, at present, with fine weather, all is still and busily in preparing for the coming farming season. All are busily engaged in fencing and other necessary preparations for extensive crop-raising. From the yield of last year we are sure that this valley cannot be excelled, in fertility, by any other portion of the Territory, nor excelled as far as regards fine crops. I know of one instance where fifty pounds of barley was sown last year which yielded fifty bushels of clean, well filled grains. Wheat and oats yield remarkably well. I flatter myself that next fall will find me taking my own grist to the mill as Conrad & Co. contemplate building a large flouring mill this spring, some three miles below Lorraine, at what is known as the "Big Spring." One of the company has gone "back" to procure the necessary machinery.

We have, at present, two flourishing schools in the valley—one at Mill Creek and one at or near Lorraine's. Here also, is a large store and hotel, kept by Mr. Lorraine.

Our blacksmiths are no less busy than the farmers. Mr. P. White, who is carrying on business at Lorraine's, is working day and night in getting up a lot of fine steel plows for the coming season.

Hailstones and Outrageous.—The crop of candidates, is said to be very plentiful all over the State. Very few, however, are candidates because they want office, but upon the earnest and urgent solicitations of friends. One of these fellows, not over a hundred miles from Salem, a candidate for the State Senate, was the other day deprecating the unfortunate condition in which he had been placed by his friends as a candidate. He had no aspirations for the State Senate, didn't want to become a candidate in the first place, didn't find it agreeable to be the "observed of all observers," thought it quite a martyrdom to be a mark for all the shafts of envy, &c., &c., but his friends, he said, had "dragged him out," and he felt it his duty to obey the call. A dry wag who had listened to the poor victim's self-exculpations suddenly interrogated, "See here Mr. —, would it be convenient for you to show me one of those heartless wretches that dragged you out?" The laugh that followed showed how well the crowd understood the matter, and how much they pitied the victim of his own heartless friends. But we suppose his friends will not let him alone; they will still insist with unyielding pertinacity upon his serving the people, notwithstanding his piteous appeals, prayers and tears, to be allowed to remain in happy retirement. Their cruelty will perhaps go further, and after inflicting upon him the grief that always accompanies a seat in the State Senate, they will outrage all his finer feelings by "dragging him out" as a candidate for the United States Senate. Of course he will resist with all the energy of his obstinately quiet-loving nature; but what is one man against a whole gang of conspirators who don't care a fig for his peace of mind when the State wants an United States Senator as is a Senator? Really, there ought to be some protection provided by law, for candidates whose castles are thus ruthlessly violated, and whose protestations against promotion are so piteous to hear, and yet are so cruelly disregarded. The penalty for "dragging out" a candidate should be made commensurate with the injury inflicted. We trust that our friend, if he should suffer the grief of being elected, will not

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE.

TUESDAY MORNING, MARCH 13, 1866.

UNION STATE CONVENTION.

The voters of the several counties of Oregon who have been and are in favor of unshrinking the supremacy of the Union, the Constitution and the laws of the United States, against all opposition, are respectfully invited to hold Conventions according to the usual custom, for the election of Delegates to a Union State Convention, to be held at Corvallis on the 24th day of March, 1866, for the purpose of nominating candidates for Governor, Member of Congress, Secretary of State, State Treasurer and State Printer. We respectfully recommend the holding of County Conventions throughout the State on Saturday, the 17th day of March, 1866, at which time Delegates to the State Convention can be selected. It is also recommended that the precinct meetings be held on Saturday, the 10th day of March. Delegates to the State Convention from each Judicial District, assembled at the time and holding said Convention, will nominate candidates for Judge and Prosecuting Attorney, where vacancies exist.

The several counties are entitled to send Delegates to the State Convention as follows:

Baker	4	Lane	7
Benton	4	Linn	10
Clackamas	7	Marion	14
Clatsop	2	Multnomah	13

W. C. WATSON, Secretary.

Pennsylvania.

The great Union party of the old Keystone State has taken its stand for the coming contest. It has laid down a platform which is faultless in its construction; and with Major General Geary as its leader, the party must triumph. It will be observed that the Union party of Pennsylvania distinctly declares that the work of reconstruction is the duty of Congress. The Unionists of every State will unquestionably assent to this proposition. The legislatures of ten loyal States have already declared in favor of the same doctrine. The Union Conventions of the great States of Pennsylvania and Indiana have pronounced for Congress, and the entire loyal press of the East with the single exception of the New York Times, has set the same thing. Does it look now as if Congress had forsaken the great Union party? Will the Federal organ at Salem make a note of it? A matter and let its readers see who it is that is "out in the cold?"

How Not to Do It.

The failure of the rebellion left the people of the insurgent States in a condition to yield a ready submission and willing obedience to the majesty of the Government. The rebels, if not actually aware of that fact, must have had been wrongful and wicked, at least felt that they were under the ban of legal public opinion, and realized that their action was an odious thing in the sight of an overwhelming majority of their countrymen. The complete wreck of the hopes they had formed of establishing their independence would naturally be the consequence; but this was nothing compared with the overwhelming realization that they had been put down in law, in public judgment and in the morals of the world. Throughout the entire country it was felt that the mad and bloody effort to destroy the nation's life, was nothing less than a most gigantic crime. In the North there was a revival of the old Anglo-Saxon wrath against untrue men, a universal detestation both of the crime of treason and of those perjured malcontents who were the chief agents in preparing the guilty work and in the glory of half its infamy and all its glory. What has become of the spirit of unbridled pride of the South only a few months ago, and the just hatred of treason and traitors that was then felt as a general sentiment through the loyal North? From a hostile, defiant, and even insolent people, it is who were in insurrection have been changed into abject, low-driving and vindictive class, forgetful of their chains and sleeping in instead of weeping of their treason. Earnest, wise and instructive efforts have been made to inform the loyal public mind, to eradicate from it its insidious [illegible] and to [illegible] the public [illegible] to the legitimate consideration of disloyalty. The rebellion was, not to make treason odious, it is all a loyal [illegible] that should [illegible]

What the rebellion was put down the best that the Southern people dared to hope for, was that the utmost would be treated with leniency and that [illegible] would not be extended beyond the guilty authors of the revolt. Leading rebels felt that they [illegible] ought to expect [illegible] at the hands of the Government they had struck at to feel and they sought to silently destroy. Many of them, knowing the legal [illegible] of their acts, hastened to [illegible] country whose fields they had delugued with [illegible] whose homes they had filled with [illegible]. The masses of the people had felt the heavy hand of the Government and had been taught to respect established authority. Their [illegible] was to [illegible] that they felt that it would be a privilege to be permitted to return to their [illegible] and to live [illegible], even though the political rights they had forfeited should be forever withheld from them. But hardly had they laid down their arms, until they were invited, leading rebels and common people, alike, to resume the exercise of full political rights and to take the government out of their States out of the hands of the loyal minority, though this minority had received assurances from the President of full and adequate protection against the disloyal majority. This hope was revived in the minds of the rebel. Year after year, and from that day unto this, they have been actuated by a sentiment of suppressed but increasing hostility toward the Government and toward the loyal men to whom they are indebted for it to be revenged.

The testimony that comes up from the South is all of one kind. It corroborates the statement that the people of that section are more turbulent and less loyal than they were immediately after the close of the war. Governor Brownlow of Tennessee says that the hatred of the late rebels toward both the Government and the Southern loyalists is intensifying every day. Even the rebel General Lee, lately before the Reconstruction Committee at Washington, stated that Virginia, far from being pacified, is more discontented than when the war was brought to an end. For this there is a reason, nor is the reason so deeply hidden as to escape the most common observer. The satanic disloyalty of the President toward even the most guilty rebels has produced such results as we now witness. Andrew Johnson's own words are verified. It has been proven that "mercy to the individual is cruelty to the State."

When President Johnson succeeded to the Chief Magistracy he announced it to be his purpose to punish treason, to establish loyalty in the South, to hold the rebellious classes in subjection and to exclude the enemies of the Government from participating in the work of restoring the revolted States to their relations with the loyal members of the Union. He now thinks his part of the work of reconstruction is finished. In view of what he promised and what he has accomplished, he furnishes us with the most distinguished example of "how not to do it" that this country has ever seen.

THE NASBY PAPERS.—The "Nasby Papers" have been collected and published in a volume entitled "Divers Views Opinions and Prophecies of Petroleum V. Nasby." None of the literary burlesques are so well known as "Nasby," and none deserved so well in sustaining that peculiar style of composition as he. His sayings, speeches and "poems" are all contained in the volume before us, and though they have been around the world through the newspapers, will bear reading over again. Bancroft & Co., of San Francisco, can supply the book. It is also for sale by McCornick of the Franklin Book Store, Portland.

State Items.

The Mountaineer calls the attention of those people who are seeking homes east of the mountains, to the Clikatat valley which, it says, possesses peculiar advantages as to productive soil, genial climate and easy accessibility during the entire year. A number of claims have already been taken up but a greater number yet remain open to settlement.

Reports from Canyon City are very favorable. There have been no recent Indian depredations, the miners have got to work and are doing well, and business generally has become lively.

John Lane, the son of Jo. and late of the Southern Confederacy, is sojourning at Albany. The Journal says of John, the son of Ja., after giving a brief outline of his career, "such being his history he need not be surprised if he is greeted many times by loyal men as he was yesterday by a citizen of this place, who, on being introduced to 'Mr. Lane, of the Southern Confederacy,' indignantly refused to grasp the hand of a traitor.' If Mr. Lane expects to live among loyal people, he will find it to his advantage not to permit his friend Democrats to boast of his exploits in robbery."

W. B. Carter, at present associated with the Advocate office, is soon to become connected with the editorial and publishing management of the Corvallis Gazette.

The salary of the Corvallis Postmaster has been recently increased two hundred dollars.

We learn from the Albany Journal that at the meeting on the 7th inst., to consider the practicability of a water ditch from the Santiam to Albany, the report of the surveyor was received, approved, and further steps to organize a joint stock company will be forthwith taken. A committee was appointed to procure subscriptions. The name of the company is to be "The Albany and Santiam water ditch Company," and the capital stock is to be $50,000 in shares of one hundred dollars each.

The Directors of the Linn county Agricultural Association had a meeting on the 7th, and elected the following officers: President, A. Hackleman; Vice President, M. Luper; Secretary, John Barrows; Treasurer J. Nixon. An assessment of $15 on each share of $25 was levied, and the Directors passed a resolution requesting all who can to pay the whole or a part of balance due on their shares.

The Albany Journal mentions the invention of a gang plow, by Mr. J. H. Douthit of Linn county, which is thought to be a valuable one. Mr. Douthit has taken measures to secure a patent. The Journal says, "It is a most complete piece of mechanism, and we have no doubt it will be accepted by agriculturists everywhere, as a decided improvement. It carries two plows abreast, behind a pair of wheels, and is so arranged that the driver, whose seat is over the axle, can set his plows deep or shallow, to suit his ground, or he can, if he desires, raise them entirely out of the ground, by simply turning a crank at his right hand. The whole construction is simple, but substantial. Mr. Douthit thinks they can be made complete for eighty dollars.

St. Patrick's Day is to be celebrated at Williamsburg, Southern Oregon, by a magnificent ball.

The Columbia is reported to be rapidly rising. We are informed that on Saturday, it rose three feet at the Dalles.

The Trustees of the Albany College are Messrs. John Conner, Jacob Nurcross and James Foster. Mr. Thomas Monteith is the donor of a beautiful site, consisting of four blocks in the southern part of the town. The college is to be under the supervision of the Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church of Oregon. Rev. H. H. Geary is soliciting subscriptions and is meeting with very liberal success.

Eight of the men arrested on the charge of being concerned in the murder of Mr. Stoughton, (originally published, Slaton,) on the Umatilla, have been committed in default of bail in the sum of $5,000. Dr. Alderman, who appears to have been the leader of the gang, was refused bail. The evidence, during the trial, warrant the prosecuting attorney, Mr. Dugan, of Walla Walla, that it would be better for him to desist from the further prosecution of the accused parties. The Sheriff of Umatilla had received a similar warning.

At the Dalles Precinct elections on Saturday, Messrs. H. A. Hogue, F. W. Ayers, Geo. Liebe, C. Dieriam, R. W. Crandall, E. H. Hoodenbarn, J. G. Wilson were elected for East Dalles.

In West Dalles Precinct, Messrs. J. S. McFarland, John Irwine, O. N. Denny, C. B. Kingle, J. M. P. Cook, C. W. Denton, Fredd Liebe, Dr. Warner, O. W. Weaver, D. Handley, Charles White, G. L. Woods, E. B. Welch, were chosen. It is understood that the nominations for the county will not be made till after the State Convention.

Gen. Steel, commanding officer of this department, has been on a visit up the Willamette Valley, as far as Albany, where his old college tutor, Rev. Mr. Monteith, resides.

A man living in Benton county lost a team of two horses, last week, at the Long Tom ferry, by the giving away of the boat's fastenings as the horses were stepping on board. The boat, floating from shore, the horses were dragged backward into the river.

A TRIPLE TRAGEDY IN LINN COUNTY.—We have received by mail the following account of a most horrible tragedy in Linn county, reference to which may, also, be found in our telegraphic dispatches:

ALBANY, March 10th, 1866.

On Friday morning, 9th inst., Sydney A. Smith, aged about 42 years, for many years a resident of Linn county, murdered his wife in a most shocking manner and then committed suicide, at his home six miles west of Brownsville. The circumstances, as related to us, were as follows: Smith had been in the mines for two or three years, latterly doing business as a butcher and trader at Idaho City, where he had kept bad company, and had just returned. The news of his infidelity preceded his arrival, and caused domestic trouble. On Friday morning he discharged his revolver at his wife, the ball taking effect in the left breast near the shoulder. She then made her escape from the house, and ran shrieking through the orchard, a distance of some two or three hundred yards. A brother of the husband, engaged in the stable, was attracted by her cries, went after and persuaded her to return to the house. Here they were met by the husband standing in the door, who took her hand, with the remark: "I'll take care of this woman," and the brother left her—probably to go for help. He was soon compelled to return by the noise of another shot, and found his brother weltering in his own blood, a bullet having sped through the brain over the right eye. Upon looking for the wife, she was found in the smoke house adjoining, where she had been most shockingly mangled with a knife—in the hands and face, and finally stuck in the throat, like a pig. Smith lived about two hours. They left four children, the eldest a girl of thirteen or fourteen, who, with the others, were found secreted, overwhelmed with terror, in the orchard. When the neighbors arrived, the brother of the murderer and suicide was so excited at the horrible transaction, as to be unable to speak for some time. Mrs. Smith is represented as one of the most estimable of women, beloved and respected by all who knew her. She was about 30 years of age.

ANOTHER OF ITS TRICKS.—A friend calls our attention to the fact that the Statesman, in publishing the President's late disgraceful speech, omitted those choice paragraphs in which Sumner, Stevens and others are denounced as "traitors," and Forney described as a "dead duck." Knowing the inveracity of the politicians' organ as we do, we cannot wonder that it should attempt to conceal this violent and vulgar tirade of Johnson. Its object in suppressing those portions of his speech was, evidently, to prevent respectable Union men from being disgusted with him. Are those who will perpetrate a trick of this kind fit to be relied on for political information? With such men there is neither honesty nor candor; deception is the only principle they act upon. Out upon those who make it their avocation to deceive that they may sustain a false and odious cause!

THE COUNTY CONVENTION.—The Unionists of this county will hold but a single Convention this year. At the Convention to be held on the 24th inst., a full legislative and county ticket will be nominated, and Delegates to the State Convention appointed. We make this statement to correct a misapprehension which is more or less prevalent, that there will be, as heretofore, two county Conventions.

LIFE INSURANCE CO.

In the United States!

EVERY DESCRIPTION OF POLICY ISSUED.

ALL POLICIES ARE NON-FORFEITABLE.

Dividends are declared Annually—which can be applied as Cash in reducing the yearly premium commencing on the second year, or towards buying more insurance.

The last Dividend (Feb. 1st, 1866) was nearly double in amount and in proportion to premiums paid than was ever declared in the same space of time by any other Company in the world.

N. B.—Particular attention is requested to the advantages afforded by the payment of the premiums, on both Life and Endowment assurance policies, in THE ANNUAL INSTALMENTS. The rates of such premiums charged by this Company are lower, while the dividends are greater, than in any other life company in the United States. As an additional inducement, the Company will, on surrender of such policy, issue a paid-up policy for an equitable sum, which they will guarantee SHALL EXCEED the proportionate amount.

For instance, on surrender of a policy for $10,000 (other amounts in the same proportion,) on which the premiums are payable in ten annual instalments, the Company will issue a PAID-UP POLICY which they will guarantee

After the payment of 2 premiums SHALL EXCEED $2000
" " 3 " " 3000

And so on. On the Five Years' Life Plan the proportion is double.

ENDOWMENT POLICIES are issued payable to the assured at death or any age between 40 and 65, with full participation in the surplus of the Company; thus combining Life Insurance with a safe and profitable investment.

PARTICULAR ATTENTION is called to the Table of Rates by Ten Annual Instalments for "Endowments," issued by this Company, which present UNEQUALED ATTRACTIONS, EITHER AS AN INVESTMENT OR PROVISION IN CASE OF PREMATURE DEATH, for it is now universally conceded that aside from the Life Insurance which is combined with the Policy, that there is no way of investing small instalments in so safe and highly advantageous a manner, as it gives the assured the entire benefits of an immense capital and well regulated Financial Institution. To parties in business this is invaluable, and by many is considered an actual necessity for prudent purposes ALONE, to say nothing of the many other advantages if constitutes the VERY HIGHEST FORM OF COLLATERAL upon which to borrow or convert into cash in case of emergency, which can be readily accomplished, and for a far greater sum than has been expended on the Policy—inasmuch as from the first it shares in the immense dividends of the Company—and is non-forfeitable for a full proportionate amount of the entire policy for each and every year's premium paid thereon.

The above class of Policy is attracting much attention throughout the United States. THOUSANDS who have heretofore declined insuring are now rapidly availing themselves of its benefits, as the marvelous rate of increase in the assets of this Company will attest. The cash assets of this Company alone, exceed in a few months the total cash assets of the other sixteen companies combined, incorporated in the State of New York, while the CASH dividends for the last two years were nearly double that ever declared by any other Company.

Parties desiring to insure should start in at once to SECURE A FULL YEAR'S DIVIDEND to be declared February 1st, 1867. Apply to

LEAVING THE STATE.—We observed some time since that a very [illegible]ful business man of the Dalles had advertised his stock for sale at cost, and more recently discontinued it at auction, and yesterday in a conversation with the genial man who was in the city en route for [illegible], we were told that the reason of his doing this was from the fact that the place was speedily going to [illegible] for want of a back of energy on the part of the people to develop the resources there. He had made money in [illegible] hours, and in proportion to his interest [illegible] very much to develop the place. We are inclined to think he still was much out of proportion and larger [illegible] by some others, who own the bulk of [illegible], and should be found taking the lead in all [illegible] to be of advantage to the Dalles. He [illegible] would not be judicious in him to remain there, [illegible] and continue to give for the support of others, [illegible] that his personal property should [illegible] to three or four per cent. a month, [illegible] for the improvement of real estate. The people [illegible] ago expended considerable money [illegible] road to Canyon City and [illegible] whom called upon to stock the road, and divided and traded to their doors they failed to [illegible] anything, and notwithstanding the road is [illegible] State use to them. Other matters were [illegible] and the lack of private enterprise to carry out [illegible] Dalles, and propelling good citizens of [illegible] to Thompson's Prairie. We [illegible] any one from our State. On the contrary, [illegible] part of all stirring men here; But the [illegible] remarks the mass of real estate owners [illegible] very apparent in Portland. Rents in [illegible] enormous—there is nothing that at this [illegible] as well on an investment as the building of [illegible] for rent. The interest feels up from 2½ [illegible] per cent. a month. Yet, how do we find the [illegible] of the money investing it? Are they liberal to [illegible] who are paying Rent these exorbitant [illegible] in any section, by opening routes, [illegible] Penny nuts and penny foolish" policies [illegible] profitably in the end.

THE TAKU PASS.—On Saturday last the [illegible] with about 200 passengers on board, [illegible] Messrs. Miller & Lambert for the [illegible], a few hundred boxes of fruit. [illegible] and the boxes piled on board for some [illegible] of the fruit. He took a walk for [illegible] fruit to eat. The only article in [illegible] he had not helped to be some pound [illegible] would weigh two pounds or more [illegible] the crowd helped themselves, and [illegible] who was a passenger, [illegible] that he accompany us [illegible] of the fruit. He never spoke a [illegible] to us, and read to the "talk" of a [illegible] that he had been there, and his convic[illegible] at three of these pears would [illegible] three come down a box of excellent [illegible] the whistle blew, and "all aboard," [illegible] and away we went. We opened [illegible] and found that the pippin was complete, [illegible] not eaten too freely of pound pears [illegible] the better article.

[illegible]'s building, on the corner [illegible] is to be one of late but noted as [illegible] of Portland. The police have found it [illegible] to all the crimes committed in the [illegible] made a beginning. The great number of bur[illegible] [illegible], robberies, and poisoning con[illegible] the place a detestation, and it is [illegible] who has been a sufferer by the in[illegible] and below his establishment the past [illegible] share [illegible] been punished, and will no doubt [illegible] a respectable quarter. The Fidelity is a screw [illegible] about 150 tons, with [illegible] with Portland, and we shall be [illegible] vessel. The inquiries from Oregon at Victoria are astonishing. The value [illegible] during that time was $70, [illegible] We hope the day may come [illegible] to make an article to ship [illegible] and not so much pass the mouth [illegible] over that road via California.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO MARCH 6.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The Senate devoted the day to debate on the constitutional amendment fixing the basis of representation. The vote upon which it was agreed would be taken to-morrow. Wilson, of Massachusetts, made the principal speech in favor of the amendment, predicting that it would secure universal suffrage within five years. He opposed the idea of having universal suffrage, offered resolutions declaring that Congress has the whole power to determine on the plan of reorganization and requiring Joint Committee on reconstruction to report a law by which States may be organized.

WASHINGTON, March 6th.—The Senate had a six hours session on the constitutional amendment fixing the basis of representation. Mr. Fessenden closed the debate in one of the most scathing reviews of the late speeches made, and which was listened to in the Senate, received with keen relish on the floor and in the galleries. He held up the scholarly attainments of the Massachusetts Senator in comparison with what seems to be practical legislation, with a lively strain of ridicule. He spoke for two hours defending the Reconstruction Committee from the charge of representing this as a party measure, or attempting to do indirectly what could not be done directly, saying it was wise legislation to deal with facts. He also showed that the proposed amendment was only compromise with lesser rights, saying he preferred the judgment of nine-tenths of those with whom he usually acted, the almost unanimous votes of the legislatures and people, to that of Mr. Sumner. So long as he had the former with him, he could get along without the latter. Mr. Sumner replied characterizing the amendment as two-sided. The Senator from Maine says let it only the limitation of the political power of the South, while his (Sumner) saw in it the disfranchisement of a radical class. Wilson made a few remarks stating that he was in favor of Mr. Henderson's proposition to substitute for the pending amendment; the following words: "No State in prescribing the qualifications for electors therein, shall discriminate against any person on account of race or color," which was rejected. Yeas, 10; nays 37. The yeas were Messrs Brown, Chandler, Clark, Henderson, Howe, Pomeroy, Sumner, Wade, Wilson. The substitute heretofore offered by Mr. Sumner establishing universal suffrage by Congress with the penal amendment, was lost—yeas 8; nays 39. The yeas were Brown, Chandler, Howe, Pomeroy, Sumner, Wade, Wilson and Yates.

The substitute offered by Mr. Clark: That whenever the elective franchise shall be abridged in any State on account of race, color, descent, or a previous condition of servitude, by any law not equally applicable to all persons of such classes, such excluded persons shall be excluded from the basis of representation, was adopted, Yeas, 28; nays, 20.

Mr. Davis offered an amendment, so have the proposition submitted to the legislatures hereafter to be chosen, which was rejected by 12 yeas against 30 nays.

Mr. Buckalew moved to amend by inserting that all persons disfranchised by rebellion shall be excluded from taxation of all kinds, which was rejected by a 2 to 1 majority. Other propositions were moved but not voted down, not much on their general merits as because the Senate was determined to vote on the main question, unembarrassed by side issues. This vote was reached at a quarter before six p. m., on the passage of the amendment as it came from the House, Mr. Clark having withdrawn his amendment, there being only a difference in phraseology. The vote stood, 25 ayes to 23 noes, not two-thirds. The following were the ayes:

Anthony, Chandler, Clark, Commess Cragin, Creswell, Fessenden, Foster, Grimes, Harris, Howe, Kirkwood, Lane, of Indiana, McDougall, Morgan, Morrill, Nye, Poland, Ramsey, Sherman, Sprague, Trumbull, Wood, Williams and Wilson.

Yeas noes were Brown, Buckalew, Cowan, Davis, Dixon, Doolittle, Guthrie, Henderson, Hendricks, Johnson, Lane of Kansas, Nesmith, Norton, Pomeroy, Riddle, Saulsbury, Sumner, of Stockton, Sumner, Van Winkle, Willey and Yates. Foote, Howard and Wright were absent.

The chair announced the joint resolution having received less than a two-thirds vote, had failed.

Mr. Henderson immediately moved to reconsider the vote, which was carried, the object being now, that the proposition had failed, to see if some argument could not be offered on one of the numerous propositions during the heats of legislation on qualified electors.

Mr. Doolittle, Stewart, Cameron and Sherman, [illegible] amendments to this effect, and the Senate got into a general wrangle, and it becoming apparent that no [illegible] could be settled to-night, Mr. Fessenden moved that the whole subject be postponed until next Thursday, which was agreed to by general consent, and the Senate adjourned until next Monday.

Mr. Doolittle's [illegible] bill provides that after the census of 1870, and each succeeding census, the representatives shall be apportioned by the several States which may be included within the Union, according to the respective numbers of citizens of such States over twenty-one years of age, [illegible] by the laws thereof, to choose a Warn of the most numerous branch of the legislature; and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several States according to the real and taxable property in each.

The House resumed the consideration of the Senate bill to [illegible] all persons in their civil rights.

Mr. Bingham, of Ohio, spoke against the bill as being, in some respects, unconstitutional.

Mr. Broomall, of Ohio, spoke five minutes in its favor.

Mr. Wilson, of Iowa, closed the debate.

Mr. Eldridge, of Wisconsin, moved to lay the whole question on the table, which was lost, ayes 32, noes 118. Pending the negative vote a recess was declared by Mr. Bingham, to strike out everything penal in the bill, and in lieu thereof, that all citizens of the United States injured by a denial or violation of any of their rights, shall be [illegible] and protected in the right of action in the United States Courts, with double costs in all cases of refusal, without regard to the amount involved, which was rejected—ayes 57, noes 134. The vote was then taken on the motion to recommit to the judiciary committee, which Mr. Wilson desired withdrawn, but could not. The previous question having been ordered, the bill was recommitted—ayes 82, noes 59.

Mr. Raymond asked when the report and views opposite would report on the subject of the internal revenue, and Mr. Morrill [illegible] that the committee had hoped to get [illegible] this, and would do so at an early day, embracing this on [illegible] and [illegible] with various reductions of the latter.

The House then went into committee of the whole on the bill regulating trade with the British provinces.

Seward's Reception of the President.

The very [illegible]plastic manner in which Secretary Seward in conver[illegible] with [illegible] and that the late position taken by the P[illegible]dent was assumed through his influence, has excited much remark. Raymond, of New York, in a speech in the New York Tribune, denounced the [illegible] as [illegible] subversive. We will probably have the [illegible] of hearing what Seward did say to parties on the floor of the House. According to those who heard the language used, it was exceedingly [illegible] Seward reiterated his [illegible] of every point in the President's speech and said in his opinion there was not at present a traitor in the South.

A Visit from the P. [illegible] to Gov. [illegible]

OMAHA, March 9.—The following letter from President [illegible] to Governor [illegible] appears in the weekly [illegible] of Georgetown, D. C., regarding the state of [illegible] Southern States:

By Order of Governor Sharkey, Aug. 15, 1865.

WM. L. SHARKEY, Jackson, Miss.—I am gratified to see that you have organized a convention without difficulty, and hope that, without delay, the convention will amend the State constitution, abolishing slavery and denying future legislatures power to make it so by law. If you could extend the right of suffrage to persons of color who can read the [illegible] and write their names, and to all persons of color who own real estate valued at one less than $250, and pay taxes thereon, you would [illegible] safely [illegible] to the adversary and set an example that other States will follow. Then you can do with perfect safety, and you will then place the Southern States [illegible] of color, upon the same basis with the free States. I hope and trust your convention will do this, and as a guarantee the Radicals who are wild upon the negro franchise, will be completely foiled in their attempts to keep the Southern States from renewing their relations to the Union by not accepting their Senators and Representatives. ANDREW JOHNSON,
President of the U. S.

Pennsylvania Union Convention.—Senators Confirmed.

CHICAGO, March 9.—The Pennsylvania Union convention yesterday nominated Gen. Jno. W. Geary for Governor on the first ballot, and adopted resolutions declaring that the work of reconstruction belongs to Congress; that the national faith is pledged for the payment of the public debt and the protection of the freedmen; praising Governor Curtin and Secretary Forney; and rejoicing at Senator Cowan's defeat. The Pennsylvania Union platform carries eighteen resolutions. The resolutions say it is the most imperative duty to gather the legitimate fruits of the war that the constitution may be purified, our institutions strengthened and the national life prolonged; that failure in these grave duties would be scarcely less criminal than acquiescence in rebellion; that it would be an insult to every soldier who took up arms to save the country; that filled with admiration of the heroic devotion and fearless courage of Andrew Johnson the people of Pennsylvania express confidence in him, and with the confidence so expressed, appeal to him to stand firmly by the side and repose upon the support of the loyal masses. The 18th resolution declares that the work of restoration [illegible] belongs to the law-making power, and deny which impairs the dearest rights of a legislative government; as a preliminary to that work Congress should carefully investigate conditions and declare terms; that, generally, we approve the action of Congress hitherto on this subject.

The Rally to Arms in Canada.

TORONTO, March 9.—The popular rally under the call for volunteers exceeds thirty thousand troops. Over two thousand arrived here last night. The people are fully aroused, and no man shirks his duty. The most exciting [illegible] prevail of Fenian intentions to invade Canada, and the government has taken prompt action of the telegraph lines. Preparations have been made to send troops by rail to any point of danger at a moment's notice. St. Patrick's day is anticipated with intense apprehension, and loud calls are made on President Johnson to interfere. The city papers this morning give two columns of special dispatching from all parts of Canada, of the popular excitement and volunteering.

New Orleans Municipal Election.

NEW ORLEANS, March 8.—The city election will be held on Monday, the 13th. The Democrats have unanimously nominated Jno. T. Monroe for mayor. Mr. Monroe was mayor under the confederate rule when General Butler captured the city, and subsequently was confined nearly two years for his refusal to take the oath of allegiance. He has not received Executive pardon, but will doubtless be elected.

Critical Condition of Gov. Morton.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 9.—Governor Morton arrived in New York by the last steamer from Europe. His health has not improved by his visit abroad, and his condition is so critical that he has telegraphed his secretary to meet him in New York.

The President's Conference with the Kentucky and Maryland Delegations.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—A delegation of Kentuckians visited the President to-day to deliver the resolutions of the Frankfort meeting indorsing the President's veto message, saying the people of Kentucky were impatient under the presence of the Freedmen's Bureau, and having made great sacrifices during the war, now claim the right to exercise jurisdiction under our laws. The President returned his thanks for the expression of confidence peculiarly gratifying at the juncture, which he regarded as the most critical in the affairs of the nation. To attack and overthrow the Government by force of arms was not more dangerous to the nation than an attempt to revolutionize and undermine it by the destruction of the safeguards thrown around the liberties of the people in the Constitution. Our stand, said the President, has been no step backward; no other or higher evidence of our purpose in this regard can be given than that already furnished, and a hope to remedy ere long, all the irregularities to which the people have been subjected. Again he [illegible]s you that these demonstrations of confidence and assurances of support are exceedingly cheering.

A committee from the Maryland Legislature also visited the President with resolutions approving the President's policy. The President said he need not reiterate his former declarations. The people know where we stand, and it is a most gratifying thought that there seems to be a crystallization of men that will in future sustain the country and the principles on which it lives. Men holding these principles must act as if, no matter what the starting points, present dangers must be met and overcome.

California News.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 12.—A man, named David Lindsey, was arrested at Strawberry, on Saturday, for passing counterfeit greenbacks. He had on his person $1,500 of the counterfeit currency. He was brought to this city Saturday night and indicted by the United States Grand Jury to-day.

The dead body of a man was found floating in the Bay near the shore on North Beach on Saturday.

S. T.—1860.—X.

Persons of sedentary habits troubled with weakness, lassitude, palpitation of the heart, lack of appetite, distress after eating, torpid liver, constipation, &c., deserve to suffer if they will not try the celebrated

PLANTATION BITTERS,

Which are now recommended by the highest medical authorities, and warranted to produce an immediate beneficial effect. They are exceedingly agreeable, perfectly pure, and must supercede all other tonics where a healthy, gentle stimulant is required.

They purify, strengthen and invigorate.
They create a healthy appetite.
They are no antidote to change of water and diet.
They overcome effects of dissipation and late hours.
They strengthen the system and cultivate the mind.
They prevent miasmatic and intermittent fevers.
They purify the breath and acidity of the stomach.
They cure Dyspepsia and Constipation.
They cure Diarrhœa and Cholera Morbus.
They cure Liver Complaint and Nervous Headache.

They make the weak strong, the languid brilliant, and are exhausted nature's great restorer. They are composed of the celebrated Galisaya bark, wintergreen, sassafras, roots and herbs, all preserved in perfectly pure St. Croix rum. For particulars, see circulars and testimonials around each bottle.

Beware of imposters. Examine every bottle. See that it has our private U. S. Stamp unmutilated over the cork, with plantation scene, and our signature on a fine steel plate side label. See that our bottle is not refilled with spurious and deleterious stuff. Any person pretending to sell Plantation Bitters by the gallon or bulk, is an imposter. Any person imitating this bottle, or selling any other material thereto, whether called Plantation Bitters or not, is a criminal under the U. S. Law, and will be so prosecuted by us. We already have our eye on several parties re-filling our bottles, &c., who will succeed in getting themselves into close quarters. The demand for Drake's Plantation Bitters from ladies, clergymen, merchants, &c., is incredible. The simple trial of a bottle is the evidence we present of their worth and superiority. They are sold by all respectable druggists, grocers, physicians, hotels, saloons, steamboats and country stores.

A Woman's View of Women

Let Ick Miss Juliet in the play
A forward little minx,
(And Mrs Grundy likes to say
What Mrs Grundy thinks)
Her conduct with R Montague
Seems perfectly absurd—
Such bold and brazen language too
I think I never heard

I think Othello led a tame
And wretched kind of life
With Desdemona What's her name—
His dainty pet by wife
To run away—at such an age—
And with a negro too!
Such conduct, even on the stage,
I think I never knew.

I think that as to Beatrice,
Her husband was a fool
For looking for a life of peace
With such a wife as that
Her conduct wasn't over strict,
But all her length of jaw,
And since a scribe Benedict
I think I never saw

I think when Portia's lovers came
And played at pitch and toss,
The gentleman who won that dame
Deserved to gain a loss
I think Zenilla was a shrew,
And Rosalind ill bred;
(But "As You like It," entire nose,
I think I never read)

I think Macbeth was but astray
By wicked Lady M,
And those three witches! By the way,
I don't think much of them
I think Ophelia—that's a fact—
The best of all the set
But anybody quite so crack'd
I think I never met.

Three Noted Men.

In a late lecture delivered on Lincoln at Springfield, Illinois, W H Herndon portrayed the characteristics of the oratory of three distinguished men of that State:

The strength and power of Lincoln's eloquence lay—

First: In his strong logical faculty, his power of grasping, and his love of principle; not as mere abstractions, as to their generous and liberal application to men and things,

Secondly—In his clear vision and excellent understanding—the full comprehension of the exact state and condition of things.

Thirdly—In his cool and masterly statement of the facts around which the debate swung—of the principles involved, and Finally, in the clearness, strength and solidity of his premises. He stood up square and built to his convictions, and fashioned and formed by them his style and utterance. His mind was not great, wide, deep generalizing and comprehensive alone; it was not quick, discursive, versatile, flying here and there generally to meet all emergencies and sudden crosses, it ran in paths, cuts and deep lines grooved. He thought long and well on his subject, stripped it of all useless adjuncts, condensing and boiling all things to the process of the last ounce of thought and utterance. His mind was not spontaneously in his nature, no enthusiasm, no fancy. He was candid and direct, having an abiding confidence in the final triumph of truth and right. Whatever of life, force and power of eloquence these qualities or a like combination of them could give, whatever there is in a fair, honest and impartial administration of equity and justice to all men alike at all times and places, whatever there is in a strong will to do right, with tenderness and mercy—whatever there is in a sublime patience and a never ending toil, with the strongest moral courage whatever there is in an individual faculty, or a combination of them; all working deliberately—not losing sight of its imperfections, all entitle Lincoln to the fame of a good and wise Executive of the people's Government. They limit and define him as orator, politician and statesman.

Had the lecturer desired to get an exact idea before their minds, and to do this he would put in juxtaposition and contrast three different men, each with his own individuality and failing. They were men of national reputation, and taken collectively, represent perhaps the varieties of eloquence. The differences in the men are broad, strong and radical. One of these men was some what heavily built, about the average height; his face was round and somewhat florid, smooth and clean; he had large dancing blue eyes. His head was large, his hair fine, inclining to brown. His frame was full and broad. He was squarely built, quick, active and full of energy. He had great force, was lively, spontaneous, generous, profuse and open; and an exquisite sense of the beautiful. He was bold, brave, chivalrous, restless. He was a foreigner by birth. This man had moved and shaped his own way through life and among men a poor lad, and leaving as a famous man. He was quick and perverse in unusual ways; over the young, who followed him with delight, asking to questions. This man was the gallant and the lamented Col. Baker, once our Senator and dear friend.

Colonel Baker's type of oratory was florid, spirited, full of fancy, rich and florid, poetic and enrapturing to all who heard him. His voice was sweet and harmonious. He spoke with much action; his style and matter were but absolutely original and deep, nor what the world calls philosophic. His eloquence was rhetoric; it appealed to feeling and moved others to public action. Colonel Baker was graceful, his gestures being generally graceful, his arms moving from left to right.

He rose up and sometimes down. His rhetoric was all deep, as the world used that term of it. All I want was beyond the power of logic to produce—conviction, to send it "settled and fixed and set" in his hearers. His mode of reasoning figurative, fanciful and rhetorical. He did not reason metaphysically, subjectively, deductively, inwardly. His style was metaphysical, figurative and ornamental—that is, he used figures and illustrations of the sensible world. Fragrant be the memory of Colonel Baker.

The third gentleman, who is also a self made man, shall be nameless. It does not matter to this audience who he is nor where he lives. His physical build is short, thin and square, in figure and face. Everything is sharp, keen points. He has light hair, bluish gray eyes, large and square hands, short, stout, shrunk and shrivelled, full and restless, full of action and energy. His eyes keen and penetrating, his voice sharp and shrill, squeaky and squally. His gestures are angular, not raw, his forefinger long and bony, striking the palm of his left hand. His gestures in other awkward than otherwise. His method of reasoning is metaphysical, mathematical, precise and logical. His utterance is forcible. Under this man's oratory the speaker often wished he were a coroner's jury's knife and microscope, to find that he might cut the thing to atoms and see into them. He spoke to the inner man by subject, thought and speech, rather than through figures or the physical world. Baker seemed the nameless man made one think and feel. Baker made his auditors boisterous, the other caused them to think and reflect. Baker's style was like Baker; the other's like himself. So with all men.

The third man was long, full and bony, as has been described; he had no grace of style, beauty or force. His features were long and blunt, and expressed weakly in angles and jerks—sometimes the features were extended to his whole body. His voice was husky, loud and rattling. This man of 6 ft. his hands and arms hanging gracefully at his side loosely; sometimes his thumbs were hooked in the arm-hole of his vest. This gentleman spoke logically, through analysis, using the figures of the eternal world to illustrate his ideas. He did not reason metaphysically, mathematically, abstrusely. He reasoned from the outside world to the inner mind—was not rhetorical, oratorical, but eloquent in his way. Lincoln was this third man reasoned deeply, broadly, strongly. His eloquence produced in the minds of those who heard him a thorough conviction; giving a full and perfect satisfaction to the soul, not exciting energy or action, but a philosophic satisfaction, an abiding conviction, in which the hearer rested firmly. It was only when Lincoln's head and conscience breathed through the tender tongue of heart on the mass of mankind that he was truly sublime grandly eloquent. The precise and exact difference in these three varieties of eloquence is just here. Baker's eloquence was the beautiful the nameless man's was the logical, and Lincoln's the potent. The three men marked the ideal man orator the world over.

Ridicule and Repartee.

—The fatal fondness for indulging in a spirit of ridicule and the injustice and irreparable consequences which sometimes attend a too prompt reply, can never be too seriously and too severely condemned

Not to offend is the first step towards pleasing. To give pain is as much an offense against humanity as against good breeding, and surely it is as well to abstain from an action because it is sinful as because it is impolite

A man of sense and breeding will sometimes join in a laugh which has been raised at his expense by an ill natured repartee but if it was very cutting, and of those shocking sort of truths which, as they can scarcely be pardoned in private, ought never to be uttered in public he does not laugh because he is pleased, but because he wishes to conceal how much he is hurt. As the sarcasm was uttered by a lady so far from seeming to resent it, he will be the first to commend it, but notwithstanding this, he will remember it as a trait of malice, when the whole company shall have forgotten it as a stroke of wit.

Women are so far from being privileged by their sex, to say unhandsome or cruel things, that it is the very circumstance that renders them more intolerable. When the arrow is lodged in the heart, it is no relief for him that is wounded, to reflect that the hand which shot it was a fair one.—Hannah Moore

California Resolutions Sustaining Congress

The Lower House of the California Legislature on the 1st inst passed a series of resolutions strongly sustaining Congress The following are the Senate resolutions on the same subject

Resolved by the Senate, the Assembly concurring, That in view of the present extraordinary condition of National affairs it is proper that the Legislature of the loyal State of California make the following declarations:

1 That although "indemnity for the past" has not been and could not in the nature of things be obtained by the recent triumph of our National arms in the great civil war, the late so called Confederate States ought not to be represented in Congress nor permitted to resume the full exercise of civil power within their own limits, until adequate guarantees of security for the future, and of the maintenance of the nation's faith are incorporated into the Constitution of the United States, and so made practically irrevocable

2 That the alarming pretense recently set up to the contrary of this, by those in sympathy with the unabashed spirit of the rebellion is incompatible with the course pursued by the President and approved by the Secretary of State, in instituting provisional or Military Governments in the rebel States (after the cessation of hostilities and the surrender of the rebel armies) and in refusing to withdraw such temporary Military Governments until the ratification of the Constitutional amendment adjusting slavery

3 That while we agree with the position then taken by the President—that the States had no right to resume domestic civil power, or to send representatives to Congress, until they should fulfil certain conditions precedent, in determining the terms of which they should have no voice—we deny the right of the Executive branch of the Government to determine the nature or extent of such conditions

4 That the measure of the guarantees which may be necessary for the future peace and security of the nation can be authoritatively determined only by the people and their duly chosen representatives in Congress and that any attempt by the National Executive to obtrude this question would be an invasion of the rightful authority of the people and dangerous to republican liberty

5 That because the second clause of the latest constitutional amendment, which empowers Congress to carry into effect, by Federal enactment, the first clause abolishing slavery, would obviously be a dead letter with a Congress composed of the enemies of liberty, and because the present constitutional basis of representation is, under the new order of things, manifestly partial and unequal, we approve the spirit of the proposed constitutional amendment which has already received a two third vote in the House of Representatives, and which is now pending in the Senate, and our Senators are hereby instructed to yield the most cordial support to the end that their late so called Confederate States may, when admitted, be reduced to an equality as to representation with the loyal States.

6 That the adoption of this and such other just amendments to the Constitution as Congress may propose and the loyal States ratify, ought to be held as conditions precedent to the restoration of civil power in the late so called Confederate States and the admission of their Senators and Representatives to seats in Congress.

7. That we have full confidence in the wisdom, integrity and moderation of the present Congress; that the Freedmen's Bureau bill, which recently passed that body, appears to have been well considered and constitutional measure, having only in view the maintenance of the pledged faith of the Nation; and that the refusal of the President to give it his assent, taken together with his declared purpose to veto all measures affecting the late rebel States, unless their members are first admitted to vote for or against such measures, are equally indefensible, and an assumption of dictatorial power to which no free people can safely submit.

8. That all fears for the future of the Republic are silenced by abiding faith in the average virtue, power and purpose of the loyal people, who have thus far proven equal to every emergency, and will continue so to the end.

These resolutions, as we learn by a special dispatch from Sacramento, passed the Senate and were telegraphed to Washington.

First Meeting of Workmen.

The Union Society of Turkish Fezzis Assembled at Wood's, March 10th, 1866. The meeting was called to order by Samuel Brown, Esq., and on motion of Joseph Engle, was elected permanent Chairman of the Convention. On motion of S. W. R. Jones, E. P. Henderson was chosen Secretary. The Chairman stated the object of the Convention.

On motion the Chairman appointed the following Committee on resolutions, to wit: Joseph Engle, S. W. R. Jones, and L. H. Poujade. Committee retired, and after an absence of five minutes submitted the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, We believe in the maintenance of the Union of these United States, and the principles enunciated in the Declaration of Independence, and

Whereas, We believe this can only be done by the perpetuation of the Union Party. Therefore

Resolved, That we are opposed to raising minor issues that will have a tendency to divide the Union Party

Resolved, That we indorse the policy enunciated by President Johnson, when he declared, "Treason shall be made odious, and traitors punished," and his declaration "That the abolition of slavery shall be made final and the rights of freedmen respected"

Resolved, That we are in favor of basing the representation on the actual voting population of the United States, and that, if such an amendment to the Constitution shall be, by Congress, submitted for the adoption of the several States, we are in favor of the legislature of Oregon adopting the same.

The Convention then proceeded to the election of delegates to the County Convention, with the following result: H. O. Davis, Addison Black, H. P. Jackson and Abraham Blackburn.

E. P. Henderson was unanimously recommended as Delegate to the State Convention from La Biche Precinct.

On motion the Secretary was requested to furnish copies of these minutes to the Oregon States man for publication.

On motion adjourned sine die.

SAMUEL BROWN, Ch'n.

E. P. Henderson, Sec'y.

Western Views of a Tariff.—It has often been said, and the statement is now sometimes repeated that the East and West are and must ever be opposed to each other on the subjects of protection and free trade. The Chicago Republican in speaking of this matter says:

It is vaguely reported that certain Republican members of Congress from the West have resolved to oppose any alterations in the tariff calculated to secure domestic manufacturers against the effects of foreign competition. Their idea is said to be that any alterations of this sort, while they might be beneficial to Eastern capitalists, would be injurious to Western farmers. This is an old notion, indeed, we may say that it is obsolete. But here in the West manufactories are rapidly springing up, and the farmers are interested in their prosperity and development almost as much as those who are directly concerned in them. We apprehend, accordingly, that any Western Representative who votes against such duties upon foreign wares as will save from destruction our own infant iron mills, woolen mills, flax mills, cotton mills, and the like will find himself condemned by his constituents.

A Gigantic Railroad Scheme.—On Saturday last, a bill was introduced into the Legislature to grant the Newport and Folsom Railroad Company the right to erect a bridge across the Sacramento at Rio Vista. We understand that a company, with ample capital, will, if the bill above mentioned is passed, make Newport a centre for railroads as follows: from Newp rt to Rio Vista, to Walnut Grove to Hick s Bridge, to Taylor's Ranch to Folsom; there it will connect with the roads to Marysville and Placerville. Then from Newport to Fairfield to Lakeport, to Uhiah, to Eureka in Humboldt county to Orleans Bar, in Klamath to Jacksonville, Eugene Salem, Oregon City and Portland in Oregon. Then from Newport to Fairfield, to Woodland to Colusa to Monroeville, to Tehama, and to Shasta. Then from Newport to Walnut Grove, to Sacramento. Then from Newport to Rio Vista to Walnut Grove to Mokelumne City, Antioch, to Martinez, to San Pablo and to Oakland. This gigantic scheme is perhaps, practicable. Congress has passed a bill giving extensive tracts of land to a railroad line between Eureka, in Humboldt, to Newport. The legislative bill under notice was introduced immediately upon the announcement of the grant by Congress to the Eureka and Newport line, and it is evident that there is something quite definite in the grand scheme which we have described.—S. F. Bay, March 6th

Who Dictated.—Below we give an extract from a late article in the New York Argus, Ben Wood's organ, and one of the most influential papers in the country. It will be seen that the President's recent course was dictated by this secession sheet, which sided with the rebellion through all its whole progress

With the agents of the Government opposed to him Johnson can certainly not maintain himself against the opposition. All the facts on which it rests his statesmanlike policy may be, and many of them no doubt are like it long resented by General Sobriz tortured officially to sustain the views of the radicals, whose ends are allowed to constitute the ways and means of the departments of government. And thus does the Government rise at the mercy of his opponents the very grounds on which he sustains his policy. What can be the so called "moderate" wing of the Republicans for the consequences of their present hostility to the President, so long as the men who sent them to Congress are allowed to enjoy their fat places in the public service? Why should they risk, by differing with Stevens, the division of their party, when their individual places in the political world continue to be maintained by their handsmen in the pay of the people? If Johnson does not soon complete fighting the opposition to him with paper pellets let him at once prepare for action—clear the Freedmen's Bureau of the creatures of the Stevens faction purge his Cabinet of the colleagues of Stevens, and sweep from the public offices the pimps of the Congressional opposition. Unless Johnson takes steps at once to show that he opposing factionists in Congress he is determined to permit no one but patriots to serve as agents of his Administration he will find himself after a while, overwhelmed by the treachery of his own subordinates. The war he has openly accepted with the factionists is a war to the knife, and will result in victory to him of a surety, provided only he meets it with a directness and courage for which those who know him give him credit. His ships are burnt, his bridges broken behind him, his scabbard has been flung away, he stands front to front with the enemy, and unless he is willing to become a subject of popular derision, he has nothing for it but to fight or die

Confederate Grandiloquence.—Henry A. Wise, a principal leader in Virginia and proverbially known as the greatest miracle of verbosity in America, though silenced awhile by the disastrous issue of the rebellion, has again found a tongue to speak in praise of himself, and his fellow traitors. He glorifies their treasonable deeds in the following language. It reads very much like one of the Confederate Democrat's high sounding sportrophes to Southern valor and treason:

And I have seen them fire their last volleys at Appomattox; and often in the marsh, on picket, in the trenches, in camps and in charges I have seen them and and almost sink, but I never saw their tears until their beloved Commander in Chief ordered them to surrender their arms. Then they wept, and many of them broke their trusty weapons. The blessed, and every glorious dead were not there to surrender, and they are not here to defend their memories from the taint of the reproach of rebellion and, treason. Alas! I am alive and here, and am bound, at every hazard, to declare that those men were no rebels and no traitors. Let whoever will swear that they were rebels and traitors, I will contradict the oath, and appeal to God in the Holy of Holys as high as Heaven's throne, and swear that they were true patriots, loyal citizens, well tried and true soldiers, brave, honest, devoted men, who proved their faith in their principles by the death that consecrated them immortal heroes and martyrs!

No one shall inscribe the epitaphs of rebellion and treason upon the tombs of their dead, with out my burning protest being uttered against the foul and false profanation. And if any wounds of the living are labeled with rebellion and treason I would tear away the bandages, though the wounds should bleed unto death. If I suffer their names to be dishonored and their glory to be tarnished, and don't gainsay the reproach, may my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth, and if I neglect their orphans to be outcasts for the want of sympathy, warmly outspoken, and more warmly felt, may my right hand forget its cunning. Also if in these times it has no cunning, for it has no joints! I, too, am a Leggar. I can beg then, and do beg like a Bellesarius, for them. Please give them one obolus! Have you a crumb to spare? divide it with them! Have you a comfort, give them. I implore you, give them some of your abundance! Their enemies, who slew their fathers, rather than enough to feed their poor orphans! They won't hurt you for daring to do deeds of charity: Many of them are brave men, and the brave are always generous to the brave.

Sumner's Speech.—A Washington dispatch of Feb. 5th, says:

The great event of the day, and of the session, in the Senate, was Sumner's speech. The galleries were crowded to excess, as they have not been on any occasion before in a long time. Fred. Douglass was in the gallery, one of the most attentive listeners, and evidently the best pleased man in the chamber, as he heard the distinguished champion of his race plead so eloquently in its behalf. Nearly every member of the Senate listened with attention to Sumner. Beverly Johnson busied himself making notes, as if with the intention of replying. At four o'clock it was evident to Sumner's friends that he was tired out, and Morgan, of New York, moved an executive session, so as to give him a chance to take another day to it to-morrow. He will review the President's policy in solid terms. Forty hundred thousand copies of the speech have already been ordered for private distribution

American Double Turbine Water Wheel

IS NOW MANUFACTURED BY THE OREGON IRON Works in the city of Portland, and orders for the same can be filled immediately. We have a small supply of the different sizes, from 10 inches to 48 inches in diameter. That we may know the proper size of wheel you require, measure your water in the following way: Take the width of the stream, the average depth and the distance it flows in a minute

All the wheels now in use give universal satisfaction. Both the construction of the wheel and its performance, commend it to the better judgment of all intelligent people of appreciating the highest development of mechanical construction. Therefore it has conquered the most violent opposition.

This wheel is especially adapted to mining purposes. It is light, and can be easily packed into the mountains. Wheels weighing from 100 to 300 pounds will yield from 10 to 40 horse power, under a head of 25 or 30 feet. They are the cheapest wheel to set up known, as they require no flume or penstock to produce the greatest power possible from the water used.

The prices of these wheels have now been reduced to the ability of all. Orders and letters or send for a circulars to

IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION: IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which in the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form.
